

experience migration

The Experience Migration Education Team needs scientists like you to help teach the public about birds and our efforts to protect them and to get visitors excited for the Bird House renovation. The Experience Migration exhibit will feature an interactive Tracking Station (pictured below) where visitors will be introduced to the work of the Smithsonian Migratory Bird Center. Join us for Portal to the Public workshops and we'll help you create an interactive program featuring your research that you will present as early as this Spring!

Are you interested in enhancing your communication skills and learning to 'talk science' with non-scientists?

Join us for FREE professional development workshops, and we'll help you create an interactive presentation based on your current or previous research!

Participants Will Receive:

- FREE Professional Development Workshops
- The opportunity to enhance your communication skills and share your research with the public
- Mentorship from the Experience Migration Education Team
- A light lunch and refreshments
- A certificate of completion
- Skills that can be used to fulfill education and outreach requirements for grant-funded projects

Participants Must:

- Attend both Professional Development Workshops on 2/18/16 and 3/3/16
- Participate in at least one public program

PORTAL
to the Public

Portal to the Public is an NSF supported project that helps scientists bring their work to the public in a fun and engaging way.

Workshops will be held on February 18th and March 3rd, from 12 – 1:30 PM.

For more information or to RSVP, please contact Heather Mortimer at MortimerH@si.edu.
